

A non-partisan fundraising network to support feminist, pro-choice women in local New Jersey elections.

The goal of ALICE's List is to support feminist pro-choice women in local New Jersey elections in order to empower all women and bring them into full political, financial, and social equality.

ALICE's List supports candidates by coordinating a network of donors who contribute to the financial resources of the candidate's campaign.

Unlike other PACs, which support only candidates who can demonstrate political viability, we want to give every qualified woman a chance to run for local public office.

We want qualified women to run, and we don't want money to be a prohibiting factor!

Why is ALICE's List needed?

Although women account for 52 percent of the voting population, they are not represented in such proportions at any level of government. New Jersey ranks among the lower half of all states in the percentage of women currently holding elected positions.

Candidates establish political credibility in part by demonstrating financial strength. Contributions made early in a campaign and aimed at women candidates will increase their chances for success.

Many candidates have told us that the support they received from ALICE's List made all the difference in their success.

ALICE's List: A Decade of Empowering Feminist Women in Politics

ALICE's List is sponsored by the South Jersey National Organization for Women (NOW)--Alice Paul chapter. Our chapter includes more than 400 members from South Jersey who seek to further the legal, social, financial and political equality of women in a variety of ways.

The chapter takes its name from Alice Paul, a native of Mt. Laurel and a tireless champion for women's equality.

Alice Paul played a critical role in gaining the right to vote for women. She earned three law degrees, and in 1923 she drafted the Equal Rights Amendment, working toward its passage until her death in 1977.

A lifelong activist, Alice Paul continues to inspire us with her courage and dedication.
